How is the Republican on the honest question, say how?

GRANT is on the retired list! Ward assisted in putting him there.

WILL Mr. Dorse take a hand in the coming campaign in Indiana?
We think not. About all Blaine's friends can expect of Dorse is that he will keep quiet.

DR. McDONALD, of California, was a candidate for president before the prohibition convention. He is the proprietor of a brand of bitters. This was raised as an objection, but it was publicly and emphatically declared that the bitters had no alcohol in them. Will this not injure their sale, hereafter? The idea of bitters without alcohol!

In 1866 when the Fenian raid was projected into Canada, and about 300 Fenians were arrested, Grove Cleveland volunteered his services to defend them in the criminal court.
He not only did this, but when a pursuit was raised for him, he refused to accept it, saying that he was glad to serve them, unfortunately situated as they were, without reward.

A GREAT deal has been said about Blaine's popularity with the Catholics and his friends are predicting large gains from this quarter. They evidently have not read the "Madigan Circular," issued by Mr. Blaine as Chairman of the State Central Committee of Maine, about ten years ago, and circulated in the 4th district of that state. Gen. Plaisted was the republican candidate for congress, and J. C. Madigan, an Irish Catholic, was the democratic candidate.
Blaine was giving his personal attention to the canvass. The circular was issued from Blaine's house, printed in the office of the Kennebec Journal, and circulated largely by the postmaster throughout the district to what was regarded as proper parties. It was as follows.

"DO the Protestant democrats of the Fourth District desire to be represented in congress by a Roman Catholic?
James C. Madigan, the democratic candidate for congress in the fourth district is a very zealous Roman Catholic. He is believed by many to be a lay member of the secret order of Jesuits, just as the late Senator Cassier, of California, was elected to the senate by Jesuit money, $100,000 contributed by that order, and the fact being discovered Cassier at once resigned his seat rather than stand an investigation and expose the workings of the order. In Ohio and other states the Catholics are striving to destroy the only avenue open to the children of the poor for education. They say 'we will have church schools instead' and thus let loose the worst of these logical quarrels in the land. It is a great gain to the Catholics to get these prominent men in congress. They have four members of the United States senate, one each from the states of New York, Missouri, Virginia and Florida. The whole energy of the Catholic church is now exerted to increase its power in the congress of the United States. The popes everywhere are watching the result of Madigan's campaign in this district, and it will be hailed everywhere as a triumph for the Catholics if a New England protestant district sends a Roman Catholic to represent them in congress. Are the Protestant democrats of the fourth district willing to aid in building up the Roman Hierarchy? answer at the polls on the 13th of September, and if you don't feel willing to vote for Gen.
Plaisted at least cut Madigan's name off your regular democratic ticket, and remember that you owe more to your party, and the proper rebuke to your party for asking you to support a Roman Catholic to support Gen.
Connor for governor and Gen. Plaisted for congress.

THE Danville News attempts to give currency to the silly tale that Harper's Weekly is opposed to Blaine because he refused to give the Harper's the printing of his book. Then we are to judge that the News Co. would oppose a candidate, because he gave some other fellow his job printing. The fact is that Harper's Weekly is New England protestant district sends a Roman Catholic to represent

The Kennebec Journal is well known as Mr. Blaine's personal organizer, he being for many years its editor and part proprietor. Ever-since Mr. Blaine's connection with it in 1851 to the present time, it has been anti-foreigner, anti-Catholic and prohibition. Not far back than last St. Patrick's Day, March 17, '81, it had a lengthy article on the celebration of this Irish holiday, from which the following is an extract:

"Last, but not least, he must drink and drink again and again of whisky or anything that will intoxicate until the day begin so gloriously is ended in drunkenness. His sharp, native wit is dimmed in the streams of fiery liquor that have run down his throat, and the pride and glory of the Emerald

THE PLAGUE.

The Toulousine Authorities Fear a Fresh Outbreak of Cholera or Greater Virulence.

Returning Fugitives Likely to Give Further Impetus to the Disease—Its Appearance in an Italian Town.

A Belief that the Number of Deaths Reported by the Press Baffy is Smaller Than the Actual Fatalities.

Grave Fear at Toulon.

A FRENCH OUTBREAK FEARABLE.

TOULON, July 30.—The hopes of a cessation in the plague here are giving way to fears of a fresh outbreak of even greater virulence than before, owing to the return of many fugitives who had left the city. There were thirteen deaths here Monday night, this being a decrease on the mortality record for the past few days.

MAESSEILLES, July 30.—During the twenty-four hours ending at nine p. m. last night there were twenty-three deaths from cholera. The situation here is regarded as improving steadily, and the authorities now anticipate a gradual decrease in the ravages of the plague.

PARIS, July 30.—There were six deaths from cholera at Arles during the twenty-four hours ending at six o'clock last evening, and two deaths have occurred at Aix since noon. A dispatch received here last evening announces that seventeen cases of the disease have appeared at Pancehieri, Italy. The patients are mostly refugees from Toulon and Marseilles. The authorities have taken the utmost precautions to isolate the district, and all other necessary measures are being observed.

In the Chamber of Deputies last night a deputation under the leadership of M. Cremazan, supported by the extreme left to visit the places visited by cholera, reported that the people of Arles were fleeing to farms in the vicinity, where they are huddled together in hovels and slept as best they could. The sick were entirely neglected.

The cases of cholera were kept secret from the authorities and no surveillance was observed. The deputation inspected a madhouse at Marseilles and found numerous cases of cholera there.

PARIS, July 30.—An application was recently received at the Treasury Department for admission at the port of New York of a consignment of rags shipped at Marseilles in May last. The vessel showed a clean bill of health and had passed quarantine at New York. The application was denied on the ground that the order prohibiting the entry of rags from infected ports was imperative, and allowed no discretion.

PARIS, July 30.—When the cholera appeared at Toulon the Academy of Sciences began to collect money and to suggest a plan for the treatment of the disease.

Suggestions were solicited, and in reply to great many methods of treatment were reported. The academy has since been actively engaged in testing their merits, and

M. De Vulpian presented his report yesterday, in which he rejects 250 of the ren-dedes suggested. The others, a very few in number, are reported to have more or less merit, which however, is of a sanitary or preventive character.

The Mayor of Toulon, continuing his investigation, has discovered great distress among the refugees at Arles. Many of the people confined to the camp were weakly but for their homes in such huts and with such apparent disregard for future contingencies that they soon became penniless, and now, like the peopals with whom they dwell in community, are reduced to distress. Food is very scant and the pangs of hunger are increasing the chance of a dreadful havoc should the epidemic overtake the refugees. The Mayor is trying to obtain donations to relieve the distress but so far has met with little success.

A correspondent visited Delio de Mai yesterday. It is a thickly populated District of Marseilles, and has had many cases of cholera.

He found great distress among the people of all classes, and to relieve them distributed a large amount of charity funds to individuals.

The political organizations are bending their greatest energies to the relief of the people. Comptoir, an offical of the France Cours Republicain Club, has rented an empty music hall at Marseilles and started a soup kitchen, of which the needy are fed with great promptness. It is assisted by police volunteers, all of whom are working night and day.

Louis Dugues, a Marseilles deputy, and his wife, are energetically visiting the vic-ties of the epidemic. The deputy prescribes to the sick, using Repell's system. His conduct has gained for him the confidence of the people.

The Paris deputies who are at Toulon report that the people there are suffering for food of any kind. It is almost impossible to find a restaurant where a decent meal can be procured.

Of the total number of deaths in France from cholera this year probably the great majority died inside of nine hours after they were seized with their illness. Some have not died until after being sick a week or more, but the majority of cases were settied one way or the other within eight or ten hours. At the start there is diarrhea and vomiting. This usually lasts but a short time, then follows the cramps and the icy chill, and this stage has commonly been reached by the time the patient has arrived in the hospital. The circulation is then bestiffened and kept up by the use of ten to fifteen grams of acetate of ammonia, the same quantity of alcohol, and by violent rubbing, there is some chance for recovery, though the chance is slight. But if the circulation can not be kept up there is certain to ensue. In the last stages some patients are delirious, while others enter into a comatose condition, but the whole latter part of the disease is generally a frightful thing to behold. It is simply a hideous sight.

In the present epidemic there have been in France about 2,300 deaths from the cholera. From this number will probably be deducted the totals published from day to day in the papers which have been incorrect. Cases which occur in the surrounding villages and at points farther away are liable to be reported late, and thus escape being included in the daily bul-
